BOTTLESOFT INC. ACQUIRED BY MODULAR INFORMATION SYSTEMS Established Bottling & Winery Management Products Added to Winery Software Product Portfolio

For Immediate Release--SAN RAMON, CA – November 19th, 2009

Modular Information Systems, www.modularinfosystems.com, with an established track record in Winery Management Software innovation has acquired Bottlesoft, Inc. as of November 9th, 2009.

The recent agreement is part of Modular's aggressive business strategy offering comprehensive and readily scalable software solutions to the competitive Wine and Spirits Industry.

Bottlesoft's Premier Series has been providing Wine and Spirits producers with an affordable solution that integrates bottling, purchasing, order processing, sales analysis, inventory management, accounting, financial management, and more, into one easy-to-use package. Unlike expensive customized solutions, Bottlesoft has many industry-specific features already in place. The Bottlesoft Software operates using the IBM iSeries Power Server class hardware, well-known for its fault tolerance and high reliability capabilities.

Armando Garcia, a seasoned technology professional and previous owner of Bottlesoft Inc., joins the Modular team focusing on future product sales. Bottlesoft's development and support team including Christena Leverton and Kit Ruck-Hugh have joined Modular Information Systems' Winery Management Software team.

"Bottlesoft has already automated many of the key requirements wineries need-- like depletion tracking, charge-back processing, casegood inventory management, advanced costing and financial management. It is a robust Winery Management software solution and is very complimentary to our Vintners Advantage Winery Management software solution," comments Lisa Levensen, President of Modular Information Systems.

Customers will benefit from the combined resources and many years of winery-specific experience that this agreement brings to the table. Modular Information Systems has grown their winery relationships to include hundreds of users stretched across the country. The company's excellent Help Desk Services are available to customers 24/7 with both online and localized technical support access.

For the past twenty-four years, the Modular Information Systems has built its reputation on reliability and integrity. The company's flagship software product, VINTNERS ADVANTAGE, has been a significant player in servicing the needs of international winemakers from the Vineyard through Point of Sale. The integrated software has hundreds of committed users—from "grape to glass."

"We continue to look at ways to empower our winery customers by enabling them to grow their sales and expand their business. We have a solid and dedicated customer-base who relies on our expertise and support. Bottlesoft is wonderful addition to our product family, and is in keeping with our dedication to provide 'best in class' Winery Management Software product offerings," comments Lisa Levensen, President, Modular Information Systems.
